Have you got the application?

Have you got the right application for the surprising variety of challenges that a career in adult social care can present?

It's a growth industry and there are hundreds of jobs available right now for people who want a long and successful career in adult social care.

There are recruitment fairs happening across the North East throughout autumn 2010, with a chance to meet employers and current adult social care workers.

So whether you want a job now, are looking for a change of career, or want to study towards a future career in adult social care, why not come along and find out if you've got the application needed? Read More
